To whom it may concern:

The organization I represent has been working since its founding in 2002 to raise awareness, protect, and ensure the proper management of Peru's cultural and natural heritage. Peru is one of the twelve most biodiverse countries on the planet, and its inhabitants have inherited the extraordinary cultural diversity bequeathed to us by the Andean-Amazonian civilizations that settled across our vast territory, one of which was the Inca civilization.

In pursuit of fulfilling our institutional mission, the Grupo Viajeros has carried out significant and widely discussed multimedia communication campaigns in collaboration with the national government, international technical cooperation, and private companies committed to the sustainable development of our nation.

One of our latest initiatives has been the publication of the book "Guardians: Chronicles of Rangers in Peru," a work that compiles the testimonies of nearly thirty park rangers from the Peruvian system of protected natural areas, many of whom are farmers and herders from the high plains and pastures of our country. This publication has just been translated into English thanks to the support and participation of the International Ranger Federation (IRF) and the European Ranger Federation (ERF).

Hence our desire to actively participate in the celebrations for IYRP 2026. We intend, among other initiatives, to produce a publication that brings together the testimony of fifteen Peruvian pastors who have practiced since time immemorial the way of life that the international community is recognizing and celebrating throughout this year so important for the future of these road ecosystems for the development of life as we know it.

To this end, we have the support of a considerable number of public and private organizations that will facilitate the creation of this testimonial book, which we hope will be presented in Peru at the beginning of next year.

Greetings from Peru, we look forward to your response.
